HONGKONG, APRIL 20TH 1909.

"MAN is born to trouble as the sparks fly upwards." Such are the words of holy writ which present rather a pessimistic outlook on life, and without being unduly pessimistic, they might be applied to the "Near East." That little quarter of the earth, with its varying ethnological elements, its innumerable needs, seems also to be destined to trouble. Certainly it has become the scene of almost perpetual unrest, but the worst aspect of this recurring strife is not the unhappy state of the unfortunate people which it reveals, but the danger it creates to the peace of Europe. So many conflicting interests are involved in the supervision and protection of an empire which has sunk so low as to be incapable of defending itself but which offers a temptation for some of the stronger powers to dispossess it of some of its fair provinces that no one power can intervene without exciting the jealousy and suspicion of the others. We remember the old days of the Armenian atrocities when Britain was blamed for not attempting to carry out the "bag and baggage" policy by clearing the "unspeakable Turk" out of Europe. The Concert of Europe could not agree as to the course of action to be taken, but neither Russia nor Britain, the two Powers most directly interested, dared interfere. They were mutually jealous while the attitude of the other Powers did not help to a solution of the difficulty. Now it looks as if the old question of interference may have to be revived, and that at a time which is less opportune than ever it was before. Turkey has shown her bona fides. She has shown a desire to travel on the path of progress and enlightenment, she has shown herself willing to grant equal rights to all the various peoples and religions within her borders, and she has made some advance towards constitutional government. Just as the new regime is emerging from trials which placed it in a perilous state, and just as the experiment is beginning to justify itself, it is suddenly set with new dangers which not only imperil the success of the attempt to govern the country constitutionally but suggest the intervention of foreign Powers which may again disturb the peace of Europe.

We have seen Turkey undergo what was practically a bloodless revolution. We have seen other smaller States attempt to take advantage of the situation by which Turkey has to devote all her energies to internal affairs by endeavouring to improve their own positions, and we have seen how Austria brought Europe to the brink of war by violating the Treaty of Berlin and annexing two provinces which were given her to police. Having passed through that period of anxiety to a satisfactory conclusion, it is, to say the least, decidedly unfortunate that the whole question should practically be reopened by the events of the past week in Turkey and in its Asiatic provinces of Armenia. The revolt is not particularly easy for outsiders to understand. It appears to be largely an acute divergence of opinion between political theorists, but as their methods of settling differences do not belong to the school of peaceful persuasion, the result is civil war. Amid all the strife and turmoil one feature stands out clear; it is the non-interference of the Sultan. From a despotic autocrat he has apparently passed into the most harmless constitutional ruler, little better than a figurehead. Ministers are changed, but not by the Sultan. All power seems to be lodged in the hands of the Committee of Union and Progress. Whether they can maintain their position remains doubtful in the light of recent telegrams, but the change, following the appointment of a new Cabinet, cannot be very serious as the new Grand Vizier was a member of the previous administration. What is perhaps more serious is the outbreak of the massacres of Armenians. These people, who are not unlike the Jews in that they have preserved their racial individuality and their religious individuality, perhaps enjoy as great freedom under Ottoman rule as under the sway of a nominal Christian power, but it frequently happens that fanatical outbreaks, for which both Moslems and Armenians have been to blame, disturb the peace of the land and help to call attention to Turkish misrule. Whatever justification there might have been for this in the past there can be little doubt that Turkey should be given full opportunity to work out her own salvation. The possibility of success is by no means remote, as is evident from the fact that all sections in the country have formed themselves into an association, irrespective of race and religion, to protect the Fatherland, and with the hands of the government strengthened there should be little fear that steps will be taken to suppress these outbreaks of sectarian feeling in the outlying provinces of the Empire. Admittedly there are many obstacles in the way of a healthy regeneration of Turkey, but the past year indicates that that achievement is not improbable; and when we remember that it has taken centuries and streams of blood to free the advanced nations of Europe from the oppression of tyranny we shall not expect Turkey, which is not much beyond the stage of the Middle Ages, to skip over the period necessary for its historical development.

The English Mail of the 20th March was delivered in London on the 17th inst. Capt. A. H. Hart-Synnot's promotion to the rank of major was gazetted on the 16th ult. A Chinese who was caught taking young birds from a nest on Garden Road on Sunday was fined $2 at the Magistracy yesterday. Two Russians charged with stowing away on board the Hatchi Maru from Shanghai to Hongkong were at the Magistracy yesterday fined $50. A fine of $500 was imposed on a Chinaman employed on the s.s. Amig at the Magistracy yesterday for having been found with a quantity of opium in his possession. A man named Gurman who deserted from H.M.S. Glory when she was on the China station nine years ago was arrested last month at Southampton and handed over by the magistrates to the naval authorities. Before Commander Basil R.H. Taylor, R.N. at the Marine Magistrates Court yesterday three boatwomen were fined $5 each for being in Causeway Bay without the written permission of the Harbour Master.

The Government-General of Kwangtung (South Manchuria) has lately rejected an application for the promotion of a Race Club in the Leased Territory.

A Garden Fete on a large scale is being organized on behalf of the Renovation scheme for the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home and the new Seamen's Institute, Praya East (Mission to Seamen). It will be held during the afternoon and evening of Wednesday May 5th.

Last week there were seven cases of plague notified in the Colony, none of which occurred in the city of Victoria. Six of the cases were fatal. One case was notified from Kowloon City yesterday. This brings up the total number of cases for the year to 34. Twenty Eight of them have been fatal.

Sir Frank Swettenham, K.C.M.G., formerly Governor of the Straits Settlements, has been appointed President of the Commission appointed by the Earl of Crewe, Secretary of State for the Colonies, at the unanimous request of the unofficial members of the Legislative Council of Manilla to enquire into the finances, etc., of that Colony.

The return of visitors to the City Hall Library and Museum for the week ending the 18th April, 1909, (exclusive of Easter holidays) shows that of non-Chinese there were 375 to the Library and 223 to the Museum and of Chinese 173 to the former and 2,435 to the latter. The Library was, therefore, used by 548 persons and the Museum by 2,653.

Another instance of the daring of the Chinese thief has come to light. The Public Works Department have recently erected an iron railing at the eastern end of Kennedy Road and during the past fortnight the greater portion of the lower rails have been taken away. The matter was reported to the police last week and since then another batch of railings has been removed.

A Chinese, who could not be persuaded by the conductor to wait until the car stopped, jumped from a tram car while it was in motion on Sunday. Of course the inevitable happened. He turned a somersault and as his head struck the ground with considerable force, he became unconscious. He recovered shortly afterwards. Since then it has been discovered that he is a character, whose acquaintance the police wish to make, and a search is being made for him.

A number of thefts from verandahs have recently taken place at Kowloon, and yesterday Inspector Langley placed a native before Mr. Kemp charged with stealing a basinette from the house occupied by Mrs. Mason in Nathan Road, a bicycle from the house tenanted by Sergt. Ford of the Buffs in Austin Avenue, and a chair from Gunner Day's house in Humphreys Avenue. The police caught him as he was coming away with the bicycle and he confessed that he took the other articles. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and four hours' exposure in the stocks.

An interesting case came before Mr. Kemp at the Magistracy yesterday when three men who had been speakers at public meetings held at the Chu Nam restaurant, West Point, were charged with holding a gathering without the permission of the Governor. It appears that the meeting of Chinese engineers numbering between 500 and 600 was called to form a trade society and representatives were present from Quarry Bay, Cosmopolitan Dock, Hungnam Dock, and the Naval Dock. Mr. C. F. Dixon from the office of Messrs. Hastings and Hastings appeared for the defence and the hearing was adjourned until to-day.

The depression in trade has affected Saigon considerably. Failures among Chinese traders and difficulties among European merchants are matters of common talk. The number of bankruptcies is, however, not large, owing to the unwillingness generally, of the creditors to enforce their claims to the uttermost in the hope of a composition or of things mending. For all that, the crisis goes on without any sign of improvement, especially in the import trade. Experts differ as to the why and wherefore of the crisis. Some lay the blame on the fall in silver. Others say that it has all been brought about by reckless trading and dealing.

PHILHARMONIC CONCERT.

Owing to an alteration in the arrangements of the Bandmann Co., who were to have played in Hongkong next week, the Philharmonic Concert which was to have taken place on Friday April 23rd has been postponed to Tuesday April 27th. We are asked to state that those bearing the earlier date will still hold good.

THE WARD COMEDY COMPANY.

The piece staged by the Company at the Theatre last night was "The Man from Mexico," a comedy full of amusing situations and the clever interpretation of the piece by the Company was immensely enjoyed. Mr. Ward made the most of the principal role in which he has to go to prison for thirty days, a fact which has to be hidden from his wife, who herself narrowly escapes a like treatment for being found in a place of questionable repute whether her suspicions of her husband had taken her. Miss Palotta as the suspicious wife plays her part with great cleverness, while the other members of the company contribute not a little to make the production the mirth provoking performance that it was. A feature of the piece was the number of songs introduced and the Spanish dance in which Mr. Ward and Miss Palotta participated.

WANTED: A WIFE.

Speaking at a meeting held at Lambeth Town Hall, Brixton, recently under the chairmanship of Mr. Hinds, Mayor of Lambeth, to further the claims of the Widows' Friend Society—an organisation which this year celebrates its centenary, and which has done much to help poor widows—Mr. Brinsley Harper announced that he had received the following letter from a man at West Hartlepool:—"Please, could you supply me with a good young or middle-aged girl for my wife, who can share her living with me, for poor wages cannot enable me to get a good girl. I am a stone-breaker for corporation, and get 10s. to 12s. a week, but I get poorer wages in winter. I am nearly 30 years of age. I am deaf and dumb, and I do not drink or smoke. I want to know if you could get a young or middle-aged widow, with few children, in this town or any other town, who have shop for selling tobacco and stationery or selling chips and fried fish for their living. If a good widow would be willing to become my wife I could pay her my poor wages every week. I have written letters to many religious societies and matrimonial agencies, but they could not supply. A good girl must be hearing girl—not deaf and dumb."

SUPREME COURT.

Monday, February 19th.

IN CRIMINAL JURISDICTION.

BEFORE HIS HONOUR SIR FRANCIS PRIGGOTT (CHIEF JUSTICE)

EMBEZZLEMENT BY A BANK SHROFF.

Young Kwai Lung, alias Yeung Pak Shan, was arraigned on the charge of embezzling $52,747.71 from the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

Hon. Sir Henry Berkeley, K.C., acting Attorney-General, who was instructed by Mr. Dennis, jr., from the Crown Solicitor's office, prosecuted, and Mr. H. G. Calthrop, who was instructed by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, appeared for the defendant.

Prisoner pleaded guilty, but asked his Lordship to take into consideration his youth, and to deal leniently with him.

Sir Henry Berkeley informed the Court that the prisoner was one of a large number of shroffs employed in the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank and one of his duties was to receive money from persons who went to the bank to make a deposit. On June 3rd last one Lo Lim Shan went to the bank to deposit $52,747.71 on behalf of the Inspector-General of the Imperial Chinese Customs. This man paid that large sum of money to the prisoner, and gave him at the same time his paying-in book, which contained a foil and a counter foil. The prisoner received a cheque for $40,000 and the balance in cash. He got the cheque noted as being good for its face value, went through the usual formalities, signed the paying-in slip, tore it out of the book, kept part of the slip to the depositor duly signed. The cash the prisoner ought to have paid over to the note shroff, the cheque, after being noted as good, he ought to have placed in a box from which in due course it would have been taken by the shroff whose duty was to remove it. Instead of doing this he cashed the cheque and walked out of the bank. No suspicion was aroused until evening when the accounts were being closed for the day, and it was found that the cash was short.

Mr. Calthrop said the prisoner's story was that after the $40,000 had been paid over to him he found he was $10,000 short. Then he took the whole amount and went to consult a friend. That friend was a most unscrupulous person. He told the defendant at once that no one would believe his story about losing the $10,000 and that he might as well take the whole lot. The friend took care of the $40,000 and gave the prisoner about $2,000, and promised to assist him to get away, which he did. The accused went to Canton and then up north, where he remained for some years. Eventually he turned up at Shanghai and was arrested. His Lordship could see that the defendant was a very young man. He was only a little over twenty-one at the time of this occurrence, and a man who must have been in a respectable position before he entered the bank. There was this sudden temptation; he had to account for $10,000 and was led away by this other person who was very much older than himself, and foolishly yielded to temptation. This was not a case where a man had committed a series of great frauds, but a case where a young man suddenly yielded to temptation. Mr. Calthrop asked his Lordship to view the case with all the leniency he could. It was a serious offence, but the prisoner was young and Counsel thought the story he told was true. It was a wrong thing and a wicked thing to have done, but the prisoner yielded to very strong temptation. Counsel concluded by asking his Lordship to view the case with all merciful consideration.

His Lordship thought he must regard the offence, not from the amount of money stolen, but from the nature of the offence and the position which the prisoner occupied. He did not think he could possibly impose a less penalty than five years' imprisonment with hard labour. The Sessions were adjourned sine die.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

BEFORE MR. H. H. J. GOMPERTZ

(PUNISHMENT JUDGE).

TRIAL OF ISSUE.

The trial of an issue, arising out of the action by Ho Sze against the Tai Li Lung firm, Leu Hing, and Lai Chi Chin, continued. The plaintiff was Ho Sze and the defendant Lai Chi Chin. The question to be decided was whether the woman describing herself as Yuen A Choy was the same as Ho Sze. Mr. C. F. Dixon, from the office of Messrs. Hastings and Hastings, appeared for Yuen A Choy, and Mr. F. P. Hett, of Messrs. Bratton and Hett, appeared for Lai Chi Chin. After hearing evidence, his Lordship reserved his decision.

THE DELIMITATION OF MACAO.

The following is translated from the Macao newspaper Vida Nova—

"It appears that at Shanghai a meeting of Chinese from Canton has been held in order to discuss the Macao boundaries question, the meeting being held at the request of the Canton Self-Government Society. It was resolved at the meeting to send a reply to Canton that due attention will be given to the matter and that the latest information was required for their guidance.

"Fortunately, a long correspondence signed by a 'Portuguese' has appeared in the N. C. Daily News contradicting the unfounded charges made by the Canton Society against the Portuguese re territorial invasion and demonstrating that the intention of the Self-Government Society, as it was formulated in the meeting, was not to discuss the question of the delimitation but their aim was to expel the Portuguese from Macao. What they demanded was as follows:—'The recognition of the Luso-Chinese treaty negotiated at Peking in 1887 between the Portuguese Minister and Prince Ching and the Chinese Minister Sun, by which China has confirmed Art. II of the Lisbon Protocol dated the 26th March 1887 recognising the occupation and government of Macao and its dependencies by Portugal. Secondly, the retrocession of Macao, or in the alternative, the re-imposition of the annual tax and the acknowledgment of China's Sovereignty over the Colony. Should these demands be refused, then the Society desired that measures should be adopted to enforce the same.

"It is believed that the Chinese Government will not and cannot endorse such pretensions from the Self-Government Society, which represents no authority on the question at issue and is quite ignorant of the history of Macao. The Chinese Government are bound by solemn engagements in the matter such as the protocol of Lisbon and the Luso-Chinese Treaty of 1887, as said above, and the mutual accord recently celebrated at Lisbon between the Chinese Minister and the Portuguese Minister for Foreign Affairs. It is however, dreadful to note how the Chinese agitators fail to speak the truth! We can assure them that on the part of Portugal there has not been the least violation of the Treaty of 1887, not one inch of Chinese land was ever occupied by the Portuguese since the signing of the Treaty. The agitators wish that the old wall of the City be considered 'the limit of Macao,' but beyond this wall in the 'Gua' mountain, the well known Gua fort was built in the year 1537!—The village of Monghai was already occupied, when in 1848 the English cemetery was built behind the Pagoda of the same village. The forts of Monghai and D. Maria were built in 1851. The village of Lung-tin-chün lies 100 metres from the 'Flora' palace, the summer residence of the Governor of Macao. This building was erected in 1848 by a Portuguese priest, Fr. Almeida and it was subsequently transferred to the Government during the administration of Vice Admiral Sergio da Souza between 1872 and 1873.

"The little huts of Lung-tin-chün were expropriated in 1907, their owners receiving the equivalent value in cash, and in consequence of an epidemic of plague they were ordered by the Government to be burnt down.

"In the vicinity of Jap-seak, where there is the fine asylum for the orphan under the care of Santa Casa, close to the cemetery of S. Miguel. All the sheds, huts &c., were bought by the Public Works Dept. and the human bones found there, while digging the ground, were sent to the Chinese Hospital Committee in order that the relatives of the deceased, if any, might take charge of them, the rest being buried by the Committee in the cemetery by the Hospital Committee at Cathay. There is still this cemetery as evidence of what we say. The bones were never thrown in the sea, as falsely stated at the meeting. The suburban villages referred to by the speaker at the meeting at Canton, for instance, Sakong, Salitan and San Kin, have been occupied by the Portuguese from time immemorial. The Salitan alias Patano as we now call it, which lies in front of the Camoes grotto, had formerly numerous Portuguese houses and it was surmised that this site was where the first Portuguese established themselves when they arrived at Macao. Patano and Tarrateiro were formerly European districts where the wealthy people used to live. After a long time they transferred their residence to the Praya Grande.

"All these villages were situated within the boundary of 'Porta Cerpo' alias Kuan-chap barrier, which the Chinese Government made in 1573 to divide Macao from the district of Hongshan. Close to this Porta do Cerro there is now a Portuguese Guard Station built of brick and stone some tens of years before the signing of the Treaty of 1887.

"It is of importance to bring to the notice of the public in general that the Governor of Kwantung, Ung-tai-cheng, mentioned by the speaker at the Canton meeting was sent to Macao in 1887 by the Central Government to find out the truth of the complaints made by the Hongshan people and after verifying de visu the land occupied by the Portuguese, he made his Report. It was upon his Report that the Peking Government resolved to sign the Treaty of 1887. Consequently the Chinese Government was well informed of the whole facts. This narrative will enlighten the self-government Society and convince them of their gross error."

SUGGESTED TENNIS LEAGUE.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS"]

Diocesan School,

Hongkong, 19th April, 1909.

DEAR SIR.—It has been suggested in several quarters that a Tennis League would do something to relieve the monotony of the summer months and to retain the interest of members in those cricket clubs that have now expensive establishments to maintain.

Consequently invitations are being sent to the Civil Service, Kowloon, Craigswater, Police, Y.M.C.A., Wigwam and Taikeo Tennis Clubs to send representatives to a meeting to be held in the Hongkong Cricket Club Pavilion on Friday next the 23rd inst at 6 p.m. to organise a competition.

If any clubs have been inadvertently omitted they are invited to send representatives to the above meeting.—Yours &c.

A. O. BROWN.

PRESENTATIONS TO MR. J. GRAY SCOTT.

Mr. J. Gray Scott, who is retiring from the position of manager of the Electric Tramway Co., was the recipient of interesting farewell presents yesterday, from the Traffic and Engineering Staffs of the Tramway Service. During his stay in Hongkong Mr. Scott has made a host of friends, but none who appreciate his worth more than the men who have worked with him here. The initiative in the presentation movement was taken by the Chinese staff, who were anxious that their Chief should take away some memento of his stay in the Colony. Needless to say, there was hearty co-operation by the Europeans in the Service, the result being a gathering at the Tramway Depot yesterday morning.

Mr. A. Course, on behalf of the Traffic Staff, presented to Mr. Scott an album with hand-drawn blackwood covers and silver mountings. On the front cover of the book two dragons were carved in the shape of a circle, within this being a tramcar in perspective. The book contained an illuminated address and the signatures of the men employed on the Traffic Staff, as well as some forty photographs of the Tramway system. Also with a gold fob chain with his name inscribed on one side, and lucky Chinese characters on the other. In making the presentation Mr. Course asked Mr. Scott to accept the gifts from the Traffic Staff as a mark of the appreciation and esteem in which they held him. The gifts would form mementoes of his residence in Hongkong as Chief Engineer and General Manager of the Tramway Company, and the speaker had no doubt that Mr. Scott would be all the more pleased to accept them when he learned that subscriptions to defray the cost were started entirely on the initiative of the Chinese Staff.

Mr. Course then read the address, which was afterwards interpreted to the Chinese employees. In conclusion, on behalf of the Traffic Staff, Mr. Course wished the departing chief a pleasant voyage home and future prosperity.

Mr. Scott, in reply, said he accepted the gifts with the greatest of pleasure. He had always had every assistance from the staff, which made his work much easier. He was sorry to leave Hongkong, but trusted that the staff would extend the same assistance to his successor as they had to him.

Mr. MALDEN, assistant engineer, on behalf of the Engineering Staff, then presented Mr. Scott with a morocco bound album containing an address and photographs of the engineers in the Tramway Service.

Mr. Scott returned thanks for the present, and then, on behalf of the engineers presented Mr. Malden, who is also leaving the Colony, with a similar book to the one he had received.

Mr. Scott is to be entertained at dinner to-morrow night at the Hongkong Hotel by a number of prominent residents.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Japanese steamer Tamon Maru No. 3 sprang a bad leak at Newchwang with the fluke of her anchor while steaming down the Liao with a full cargo. She filled rapidly and all the efforts made to stop the leak proved unavailing. She sank two days later with 40,000 bean cakes still on board.

News has reached Manila that the Compania Transatlantica steamer Alcanta foundered near Almeria, on the Coast of Spain. She left Manila for Barcelona and Liverpool on February 23rd with a large number of passengers including Judge and Mrs. C. H. Smith. The Alcanta was a steamer of 3,878 tons, built in 1889 by W. Donny and Bros., at Dumbarton. She was rated by Lloyds as 10 A 1. The news of her loss has reached Manila through private sources. But the Manila agents of the Company, according to the latest American papers, "refuse to confirm or deny the truth of the dispatch," but the Spanish newspaper El Comercio professes implicit belief in the truth of the information. All the passengers, the dispatch says, were saved.

It is announced in the Bangkok press that the Siamese steamer Chumpon is the first boat to run under the Siamese flag directly between the capital of Siam and European ports. It is understood that a regular service between Europe and Bangkok will be maintained in the future by vessels flying the white elephant flag. The name of the second boat is the Puigan. These vessels have a cargo capacity of 4,500 tons. It is a matter of some interest that vessels flying the Siamese flag should be seen regularly in foreign ports, and will serve to make the country better known. The direct route from Bangkok to Europe and vice-versa is becoming increasingly popular with shippers, and the fact that the vessels are sailing under Siamese colours will doubtless appeal to Siamese consignees.

The Japanese port sanitary authorities at Dabai have addressed to shipmasters circular encouraging rat-catching on board as a precautionary measure against an outbreak of the plague, and requiring them to send the catch to the Bureau for microscopic examination. Among several modes of clearing ships of the vermin, the simplest and most effectual one the local authorities are likely to adopt for general enforcement is considered to be the fumigation of the holds with sulphur after the removal of the cargo.

The Opinion, a Saigon newspaper, marshals figures to show how the Anti-Japanese boycott among Chinese there has affected the Shipping interest. In 1907, fifty-eight vessels flying the Japanese flag called at Saigon. In 1908, the figures had dropped to twenty-four. The measurement fell off from 94,834 tons in 1907 to 49,000 tons in 1908. Another effect of the boycott is that the trade between Saigon and Japan is getting more and more into European hands.

The report of the Merchant Shipping Advisory Committee respecting line-throwing appliances for the use of ships in cases of shipwreck or distress at sea was issued last month. The inquiry was conducted by a sub-committee, whose report was fully approved by the whole of the Advisory Committee. The Committee had before them particulars of 43 appliances, and, having made it known that they were prepared to witness demonstrations of the usefulness of any invention, 20 of these appliances were submitted to a test. The appliances consisted of guns, rockets, buoys, &c., and the Committee early came to the conclusion that it would be practically impossible for any one appliance to be equally suitable and effective under all conditions, but that any appliance to be carried on board ship should be able to meet the needs of most of the conditions that are likely to arise. Such an appliance should be comparatively inexpensive, simple in construction, easily manipulated, and promptly efficient. Taking these facts into consideration, and bearing in mind the conditions to be met, the Committee think that the most suitable kind of appliance for general use would be found in some form of rocket apparatus. In expressing this opinion, however, they do not wish to exclude shoulder or other guns from future consideration, or to suggest that they might not usefully be adopted on the larger type of vessels, or in connection with salvage work. With regard to the exact form of rocket appliance the Committee consider it undesirable to lay down any precise rule, but they call attention to the portable forms of rocket apparatus submitted to them, as indicating the type of appliances that would be likely to be of most service for general use. The Committee found a consensus of opinion to the effect that it was highly desirable that vessels should carry as part of their equipment some form of effective line-throwing appliance for the purpose of making communication with the shore in cases of shipwreck or stranding, and with another ship when in distress at sea in cases where it is either impossible or dangerous to communicate by boats. With this opinion the Committee fully agree, and think that having regard to the humane object in view, there can be no substantial disagreement on the question. The Committee hold that nothing short of the compulsory carriage of a line-throwing appliance will be completely satisfactory.

In these days the eye of the voyager has grown accustomed to the bare poles which characterize the average steamer. Funnels have to some extent filled the void caused by the absence of yards and masts, but even the funnel someday may have to go. That, at all events, is what is said by those who advocate the propulsion of ships by internal-combustion engines. According to them, there will one day be no need for the four huge smoke-stacks of the great Cunarders, or even for the less pretentious funnels of smaller boats, simply because boilers and funnels will be done away with. It is a dream of the future, of course, but the difference which the abolition of smoke-stacks would make is not easily appreciated, whether from the point of view of appearance or of speed. When it is remembered that a transatlantic liner could be driven through any one of the Lusitania's smoke-stacks, it is obvious that the amount of wind-resistance saved by the abolition of the funnels would be very considerable. At present, however, the internal-combustion engine seems a very long way off so far as big ships are concerned.

YUNNAN: ITS AREA, POPULATION AND INHABITANTS.

Major Davies, in his book on Yunnan, says that rough measurements on the map give the area of the province as about 150,000 square miles, and this may be accepted as approximately correct. To estimate the population is a far more difficult matter. It is probable that fifty years ago the numbers were greater than at the present day, for doubling great loss of life and emigration to other provinces took place during the Panthay rebellion, which lasted from 1854 to 1873. Since then the province has slowly recovered, and while the indigenous population has increased, there has also been a constant and steadily increasing stream of immigration from the neighbouring provinces of Szechuan. Major Davies after his second journey made a rough calculation of the density of population to the square mile over those tracts of country which he had surveyed the most thoroughly. In all of these he noted the number of houses in the towns and villages and allowed in average of six persons to each house. The result gave about 400 to the square mile in the plains, and forty to the square mile in the hilly tracts. Taking the whole province he calculates that about one-fifth of the total area is plain land, and the remainder hills. This would give 10,000 square miles with a population of 400 to the square mile, and 140,000 square miles with a population of forty to the square mile, that is, a total population of 9,600,000. These rough methods naturally give only an approximate result, but he thinks the population may be taken at about ten millions. Some recent Chinese figures give Yunnan a population of twelve millions; and the late Mr. Litton estimated it at nine millions.

This population is divided between very sparsely populated mountains, which form the greater portion of Yunnan, and very thickly inhabited plains, which contain nearly half the population. In the plains the population is mainly Chinese, but not entirely so, for in the cold plateaux of the north-west are found Tibetans, while many of the low-lying plains of the south are inhabited by Shans. Moreover, in the centre of the province some of the plains are peopled by Mingchies, while an admixture of Lolos is occasionally found. At a guess Major Davies would say that about four-fifths to nine-tenths of the population of the plains are Chinese, including under this name those who, even if of aboriginal extraction, are now in language and customs indistinguishable from the ruling race. In the hills things are different. Here, as in the plains, one also finds the Chinese, and there is no large tract of country without Chinese villages in it. But living amongst them and forming the bulk of the hill population are numerous other tribes, each with its own language and its own customs. In the north-west corner are Tibetans and the semi-Tibetan Moso race. On the Burmese border are Kachins and Palaungs; also in the west of the province, but extending further into the interior, are the Lolo, everywhere throughout Yunnan are the Lolos, a fine race and more numerous than any other hill tribe. Equally widely distributed are the Miao, but they are only found in small and scattered communities. In the south-west, between the Salween and the Mekong, are the Lahu, who with their cross-bows and poisoned arrows proved formidable foes to the Chinese troops a few years ago. Near them live the Was, many of whom are still unconquered, and still carry on their head-hunting raids. Their relatives, the somewhat more civilized Las, occupy much of the country south of Yunnan, and the Burma-Yunnan frontier. In the south of Yunnan are the Puma; and further east are the Wonis and many other tribes speaking Lolo dialects. To form an estimate of the relative numbers of Chinese and non-Chinese population in the hills is a difficult task. With the possible exception of the Lolos, the Chinese would doubtless outnumber any one other tribe, but still there are many tracts of country where they are decidedly in the minority. To say that the Chinese form one-third of the inhabitants of the hills, and other tribes the remaining two-thirds would perhaps not be very wide of the mark.

THE OVER-SEA BRITISH AND THE NAVY.

The following letter is published in the Times:—

Sir,—More than twelve months ago, when the "speeding-up" of the German shipbuilding programme was a whole new matter, you inserted a letter from me in which I suggested that the proper reply to the increase of German Dreadnoughts would be for Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa to lay down Dreadnoughts. I also remarked that the advocates of Imperial administrative union had always been spurred to effort by the consideration that a time might arrive when the resources of the Home British would be taxed unduly if called upon solely to provide for the defence of the Empire, and suggested, therefore, that the cloud of the German naval menace might be found to show a "silver lining" if the necessity for more British Dreadnoughts resulted in the Overseas British coming forward to assist actively and directly in the naval defence of the Empire.

We know now that the "speeding-up" of the German shipbuilding programme as a whole has been added an even more significant "speeding-up" of the rate of construction. Whatever necessity for the co-operation of the Overseas British existed twelve months ago exists in a far greater degree to-day.

Assuming, therefore, that the Governments and peoples of the great Overseas British States were prepared to recognize this necessity, the following modus operandi might be found suitable.

(1) The passing of an Act by the several Parliaments enabling the respective Governments to raise a loan sufficient to defray the cost of the proposed number of Dreadnoughts, and to provide for the construction of the same in concert with the British Admiralty.

(2) An undertaking by the leading bondholders and merchants in the several states or colonies to guarantee the issue of the respective loans, with a view of securing the loans at the most economic rates.

If, in this manner, Canada would provide four, Australia three, New Zealand one, Cape Colony one, and the Transvaal one Dreadnought (or Dreadnoughts), we might look for the addition at no distant date of ten capital ships of the Dreadnought type to the battle fleets of the Empire.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant.

THE NAVY CRISIS.

STRIKING MESSAGE FROM BERLIN WHAT GERMANY THINKS.

18th March 23.
On the evening when the first telegrams regarding the revelations in the House of Commons were published in Berlin there were particularly three scare-subjects in the papers—a supposed Serbian attempt on the life of the Austrian Emperor and his denial, a rumoured cessation of negotiations between Austria and Serbia, and an English crisis. It is not surprising that there were some traces of public excitement, but it may seem strange to say that all the excitement was on account of the Balkan situation. From first to last both Press and public have maintained during the crucial debates in England an attitude of studied indifference. "It is not our concern," wrote one of the leading Conservative journals, and "not our concern" has been the keynote of private and public comment. So much for the surface. When one remembers how for weeks these same papers have been pouring out their most venomous remarks about little Serbia, how they have attacked Russia for her good offices towards the little Slav State, and how in years past the very name of England was enough to ensure a storm of bitterest hostility, one cannot but wonder whether "not our concern" really explains this amazing reticence.

Think of the Navy League journals and of the known feelings of men like Keira, Keeler, Haas, and so forth. Is it not surprising that these have kept silent while "Germany," "the German fleet," "German secret plans," &c. &c. have been the subjects of conversation in England? As a rule the Sunday papers in Berlin are devoted to political and other reviews of the week, and it is safe to say that in any year from 1893 to 1903 at least one, usually most of the leading journals had something critical to say about England on any Sunday from October to June, the nine principal residential months of the capital. This Sunday, with the most ample opportunity for critical comment ever offered since the Boer war, only two newspapers reviewed the Navy crisis in England at all, and only one, the radical "Berliner Tagelblatt," offers what can be called a critical review. But that one comment is, in my opinion, the key to the situation—an utter and total condemnation of the Little Navy's fallacies. The "Tagelblatt" has a circulation now, I suppose, of nearly 200,000 copies daily. It is a radical. Free trade, social opposition, everything mainly the interests of industrial Germany, and in times past has bitterly opposed excessive armaments. This is its verdict, and it deserves to be printed in heavy type across every newspaper poster in Great Britain:—

"The German Empire can but be satisfied if in England the conviction has at last dawned that we can prove a dangerous enemy. For the strong man alone can lay claim to respect and equal rights."

"Don't you see, dear Starke laiauf Achtung und Gleichberechtigung?"

I know of no answer so complete to those weak-kneed persons who think the respect and ultimately the genuine liking of Germany is to be bought by criminal disregard of the dictates of ordinary human prudence. If the crisis has done nothing else it has surely branded with the mark of blatant ignorance the pacifists who talk of peace-loving Germany and know nothing under the sun of the German people. I hold no brief for alarmism or for the "Dreadnought" as a matter of fact, but violent Turphobes are called here, but for all Germans from the high officials of State to the clerk in a little corner cafe there are three qualities, reputed to belong to England, which are especially calculated to ensure respect and friendship. These three are steadfastness, silence, strength—or, in Tennyson's words, "self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control."

"Do you know," said a German friend to me on Saturday, "what would most make us seek to keep on good terms with you? Give us ships and silence" (Sechs-Schiffe und Schweigen). It seems to me that the remark needs no further comment.

Doubtless the dignified silence of the Press is partly due to a "wink from above," for I am aware that the Government has strained every nerve to prevent any hasty resort to English criticism. In part, also, it is due to a frank admission of the dignified and impersonal tone of the English Press in commenting on the advance in German naval construction. But the Government cannot as a matter of fact control the whole German Press (I know of dismal instances of its failure to achieve that purpose) and there are "sparrows" on every house-top, and not less in Berlin's Fleet Street. At bottom I can only attribute the reserve of Press and public to the consciousness of strength and confidence in their magnificent Admiralty organisation. It is gallant to an Englishman to contravene this confidence here with—well, with conditions yonder—but there will be some measure of recompense if it prove to be the last time that any English Government dares to "make mistakes" in calculating the margin of naval safety.

I conclude with a clever though silent German criticism of the situation. In the window of a bookseller's shop, not of any great pretensions, I saw yesterday laid side by side the poster of an English newspaper on the Navy debate and a copy of Tennyson's poems. The latter was open at the poet's famous fleet-song.

If you shall fail to understand, What England is and what has made her great Will kick you from her place but not her fate! To late!—London Daily Graphic.

BOLD BUCCANEERS.

THE SAVAGE NIGHT ATTACK ON A CHINESE JUNK.

The following particulars of the attack on a Chinese junk near Singapore mentioned in a recent telegram published in the Daily Press are reproduced from the Strait Times:—

A Chinese junk left Singapore for Hainan on Wednesday, but found the winds unfavorable and returned night after night, dropping anchor between Pulau Tekong and the mainland (of Johore). The fourteen members of the crew and the four passengers were aroused from sleep at midnight by the barking of a faithful dog, which they kept on board, but his alarm was speedily silenced by a ready blow from a long Malay fighting knife, the canine blood of which was soon mingled with that of some of the unfortunate members of the crew.

A FETTER ENCOUNTER.

Two prizes had come alongside the anchored junk, and in three or four minutes, some Chinese and other Malays. They proceeded to strike right and left among the sailors, laying several low within the first few minutes. They then seized the chinchee, and proceeded to hang him up in good old buccaneer style, so force him to disclose the resting place of the most valuable contents of his vessel. This he did, and the pirates, having secured all the booty they could make away with, departed in the darkness as silently as they had come. The property reported missing consisted of $4 in cash, 1 gold watch valued at $90, and six boxes of personal effects belonging to the members of the crew, the value of which is not known.

Eczema Spread All Over His Body—Not a Minute's Comfort in Sixteen Months—Constantly Experienced With Remedies, but Even the Doctor's Treatment Failed—Writer Pronounces the

"A gentleman, who is a near relative of mine, has suffered terribly with eczema. The trouble started in the form of little white pimples on the hands. These pimples would burst and become sore. The irritation was very great at all times, and sometimes almost unbearable. He tried various remedies from the first, but nothing seemed to do him the least good. Still, he kept persevering with all the things heard of or read of. As his condition gradually became worse under these trials, he decided to go to a doctor. The doctor put him under a treatment, and he persevered with it for some time without the least sign of a permanent cure. He was almost despairing. No sooner had one sore healed than others came. From being only on the hands, the disease spread until his whole body was affected. His wrists, elbows, and back were worst, and were really most distressing. The pain he suffered became unbearable. His work necessities placing his hands in water a great deal, and the water seemed to aggravate the trouble. After a while, the doctor failed, my relative again resorted to other remedies, with the same deheartening result, and in this way sixteen months dragged by. I am truly sorry that I could not have a minute's comfort. His case having become so serious, you can imagine how thankful he was when he found that he had the right remedy in Cuticura. Had he started with Cuticura Remedies at first he would have saved untold trouble and expense. He followed the directions carefully, and the improvement was most marked from day to day. He derived great comfort from the very first, and in about six weeks the disease was perfectly eradicated, and his skin is as clear as it ever was. I pronounce Cuticura Remedies to be a truly marvelous power. Mrs. E. Spalding, 142, Donnet Rd., W. Croydon, London, England, Nov. 26, 1908."

POLICE DESPATCHES.

When the survivors came to count up their losses, they found five men dead on the blood-spattered deck, two men missing, their bodies having been thrown overboard, and four more wounded, one of whom is probably dead by the time this reaches our readers, as he received frightful cuts on the head, arms and one leg. His deposition was taken at the General Hospital last night, by the fourth magistrate. Seven of the occupants of the junk were practically unhurt, and these started to bring their vessel back to Singapore, yesterday morning, the chinchee coming on ahead in a sampan. When he arrived, shortly before four p.m. yesterday, a police party put out in the launch Lady Evelyn and met the junk off Tanjong Katong. She was towed into port and now lies at anchor near the Master Attendant's Pier. The injured men were conveyed to the General Hospital and the five bodies found on board were taken to the Tan Tock Seng Hospital, where an inquest was held, this morning.

GHASTLY WOUNDS.

The survivors, who tell the story of the attack, turned over to the police four weapons which they found on board after the pirates left. It is hoped that these may help in identifying the criminals, who, unfortunately, are said to have escaped unscathed, so that they bear no marks of the fray which might help in locating them. The weapons are two long Chinese knives with narrow blades and bone handles, an axe with a short iron handle, and three heavy murderous fighting blades already described with which the pirates executed their work. One of the deceased, who was struck on the top of the head with this weapon, had the side of his head cleaved off, and the blade cut through down into his chest.
